Welcome 1924

One of the hardest tasks of the year and yet one that gives us a great privilege is to convey a greeting of thanks to our very many kind friends and readers for many past favors and to try to give some message of encouragement that will help to brighten the pathway of the new year which is now with us.

Yes, he's here, with us again, the Young New Year in all his glory, clean, strong and beautiful. What a spectacle he makes and what a glorious opportunity he gives us to try and make good some of the mistakes of the old past year, mistakes more of the head than the heart, more of thoughtlessness than wilfulness. Yes, some of us have gone through troubles that have seemed almost unbearable, but through them all has been that golden thread of love and helpfulness that has sustained and given courage to still take up the gage that life has thrown down to us, and which with the help of Almighty God we will still be able to carry on. There is lots we can be thankful for during the last year.

But what of the New Year? There are signs of encouragement. It is true old world affairs still seem to be in chaos, but even there there are signs that perhaps their heavy load of misery may be a great deal lighter before the New Year ends. Here at home the conditions ushering in this New Year are totally different to that of last year in one great thing, and that is that our farming community has received the greatest blessing in the big crop that Alberta has ever known. Perhaps the direct monetary value has been small but it has done one thing, it has made it a great deal easier to feed the stock at less expense than at the beginning of last year, consequently that big worry is not present at the opening of this year.

There are many more things that should be mentioned as being encouraging for the opening of the new year but as we do not wish to tire our readers further we wish to close with one more thought, the biggest and best of all, that God, the Great Architect, is still watching over us and that His great plans are being fulfilled for the eventual relief and glory of mankind.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

SEES HIGH CATTLE PRICES

That Canadian store cattle will command a high price in the Old Country next spring was the prediction of H. C. Mullins, before leaving Winnipeg a few days ago on a trip east. He bases his prediction on the flooded condition of the beef cattle market by the wholesale slaughter in Great Britain which has caused a deflation in prices for the present, but means high prices for Canadian animals next spring when the market will be clear of all beef cattle.

King Hiram A.F. & A.M. Install Officers

The annual installation of Officers of King Hiram Lodge A. F. and A. M., G. R. A., took place in the Lodge rooms in the Masonic Hall on Thursday evening, December 27th, St. John's night. A fairly good attendance of members were present for the occasion and Rt. Wor. Bro. A. Brusso, P. D. D. G. M., conducted the usual ceremonies in a very impressive manner. Following were the officers installed for the year 1924.

Wor. Bro. T. Thompson, I. M. P.; Dr. J. L. Clarke, W. M.; A. C. Fisher S. W.; E. E. Freeman, J. W.; A. V. Buckler, S. D.; J. Boorman, J. D.; H. Liesemer, S. S.; S. Tighe, J. S.; S. Franklin, I. G.; Wor. Bro. W. G. Evans, Chaplain; Wor. Bro. J. McGhee, Dir. of Cer.; Wor. Bro. Geo. Liesemer, Organist; Wor. Bro. W. F. Sick, Tyler; Wor. Bro. H. E. Osmond, Registrar; Wor. Bro. W. G. Liesemer, Secy.

Carnival A Success

Didsbury's third annual carnival which was held on New Year's Day turned out to be very successful. Notwithstanding the lateness with which the announcement was made, owing to not having ice, the entries were fairly well filled and altogether the events made a very interesting day. There was a good attendance, the gate receipts being around $120. The hockey boys played their first game of the season in the afternoon when they were matched against Carstairs. Although they played well their lack of practice and training were heavily against them. There was one casualty when McMillan was accidentally hit over the nose with a stick and hurt rather severely but he had it bandaged up and pluckily kept on playing. The game ended 7-4 in favor of Carstairs. Our local team, while not as strong as it was several years ago, has a very good line up and those who turned out to support them will undoubtedly see them play some good hockey this season.

Curling Started

At last after almost despairing of getting curling ice this year the weather man favored us with some good cold weather and the ice was finished.

The rinks were all prepared and immediately after Christmas the schedules commenced. The first play off was a double rink competition for the Freeman-McGhee buttons. There are fourteen rinks playing this year and the seven winners were to play off for the gold buttons and the other seven for the silver. The competition will be finished by the end of this week and then Wednesday and Saturday nights will see once more the challengers digging in for supremacy. The double rink competition for these buttons together with the rules regarding the holding of them will cause not only keen playing but also insure a more frequent exchange of them.

The Cup schedule also started this week and will soon be well on its way. At the present time it is pretty hard to figure out just who will take the Cup this year as the rinks seem to be fairly well balanced, thus assuring much more interesting playing.

The Stove League is working well this year and anyone in doubt as to how to play a shot or wishing information as to how one should or should not be played may receive much free and interesting information from them. They are greatly facilitated this year by the fact that the windows have been enlarged which provide a much better means of watching the play.

Acknowledging A Gift From the Public

Christmas is a time for men to forget what is coming to them and to remember what to others, and it is in that spirit that we publish this acknowledgement of what is coming to you.

The truth is, that whatever was coming to us in the shape of prosperity this year has come and the purpose of this announcement is not to solicit favors, but to register thanks.

The men, women and children of this town and community have been very good to this store; they have responded to its advertisements; they have endorsed its policy and methods and they have examined, approved and bought its merchandise. They have given us:

Volume in return for values.

Sales in return for service.

Business in return for benefits received.

And thus they have done more than wish a Merry Christmas—they have assured it with priceless gift of Public Confidence.

"Thank you—and a Happy New Year."

Close The Back Door

Commenting on the decision to remove some of the existing restrictions on immigration into Canada, a Western weekly paper says that while it may or may not be a good idea to open the door to immigration into Canada, more important than opening the front door is finding some means of closing the back door—in other words, stopping emigration from Canada.

The same opinion has been expressed over and over again in this column. The back door, however, can only be closed through the adoption of policies which will so improve conditions in the industry of agriculture as to make farming profitable, and those engaged in food production satisfied and contented to remain on the land.

One means of bringing about that much to be desired result is the provision of long promised branch lines of railway to settlers who homesteaded, or took up land in other ways, in districts upon the promise of early transportation facilities being provided. In most instances early surveys of the proposed lines were made, and in quite a few cases the grade was wholly or partially constructed. The war, unfortunately, put an end to the laying of steel, and people generally, even those who suffered directly and most severely, accepted the delay.

This year, however, when the Canadian National Railways supported by the Government and House of Commons decided to proceed with the completion of several of these much needed branch lines, the Senate placed its veto on the proposal. And because protest was voiced in this column against the action of an unrepresentative body, in no way responsible to the people and wholly beyond their control, thus nullifying the wishes of the vast majority of the people, certain readers wrote complaining of the articles in question. The views expressed were not partisan, because the adverse vote in the Senate on the question of branch lines construction was not confined to members of any one political party.

The provision of adequate transportation facilities in order to enable settlers to market the crop they raise is one of the first essentials in any sound and successful immigration policy. The provision of these short branch lines is necessary as feeders to the long and expensive main lines if our railways are to be successful and paying propositions. It is not the small branch lines that are responsible for the huge railway deficits, but the lack of them to provide sufficient traffic for the main lines. Yet the opposing Senators talked as if the construction of these short branches meant adding to the railway deficits.

If further evidence was required to demonstrate the need for the immediate construction of these all-important branches in order that Canada's "back door" be closed, it was provided at the recent sitting of the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission at Dauphin, Manitoba, when farmer delegates urged the immediate construction of the St. Rose-Rokert extension of the C.N.R., and in so doing asserted that in the last three years no less than 2,000 people had left the Municipality of Lawrence, chiefly returned soldiers and Ontario and English farmers, and people are still moving out as fast as they can get out. The land is being abandoned, some going to the United States and others to seek work elsewhere. The Municipality for years had a population of 4,000, but with half of them gone, the remaining 2,000 have to pay the taxes which three years ago were paid by the 4,000. Owing to lack of transportation facilities, and consequent difficulty and expense in marketing, only fifty acres on an average are cultivated, a quite insufficient amount to make it a paying proposition.

Witness after witness told the same story, and some of the experiences related by fine, upstanding English soldier settlers were heartrending. The Grain Inquiry Commission had, of course, no power to hold out any hope to these struggling settlers, but it promised to lay all the facts before the Canadian National Railways. The branch line in question was one of those killed by the Senate's action.

What, it may be asked, is the use of Canada spending huge sums of money on an immigration service, with agents and lectures abroad and expensive publicity campaign designed to secure settlers for Canada, only to have them become discontented through failure to supply their necessary requirements in the way of transportation, and have them depart to the United States, or abandon the land to seek work in the congested labor market of the larger cities?

Let the front door of Canada be opened by all means to immigrants who are sound in body, mind and morals, even though they may not be strong in money but are willing to work and anxious to make good. That is the reason the vast majority of them emigrate—in order to improve their condition in life. But even more important is it that Canada should close its back door and keep these settlers by assisting them with essentials to make a success of their new venture in this country.

After a man has tackled three or four enterprises and failed to succeed in any of them, he usually sets himself up as a pessimist.

When a man proposes he doesn't seem to realize that it may result in losing control of himself.

Clocks Controlled By Wireless

Experts Believe This Method Will Be Generally Used

A clock that by means of wireless operates and successfully controls a number of other clocks has been invented by an American engineer. This invention is believed by experts who have examined it to foreshadow a day when all public clocks will be controlled and synchronized by this method. One of the most wonderful clocks in the world is to be seen at Wells Cathedral. It was made by a monk six hundred years ago. The hours are indicated by the appearance of a number of armed figures on horseback. These meet in a kind of charge, the striking of their lances sounding the chimes for the hour. A clock without visible works is one of the wonders of Waterloo Station, London. It is controlled by electricity, which connects it with a master-clock.

The Peaceful Boundary

Canada and U.S. Prove Relations Can Be Friendly

If Europeans could begin managing their frontiers with some degree of the confidence in their neighbors as friendly human beings, which is characteristic of our Canadian relations, they would begin to recover their poise and prosperity. The fact that we have kept this peace, more than 2,000 miles broad and more than 100 years long, proves that it can be done. What Europe needs more than anything else is the study and imitation of our northern frontier.—From the Mail and Empire.

For your condition the best prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are made specially for the stomach, kidneys and liver.

The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Lumber Substitutes

What shingle substitutes have done to shingles, lumber substitutes are beginning to do to lumber. For instance, boards are being made today out of sugar cane. C. P. R. NEW YEAR'S MESSAGE

MONTREAL, Dec. 31.—Mr. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway has issued his annual New Year message to all officers and employees of the system as follows: "The ideals of courtesy and efficiency on which Canadian Pacific service is based have been maintained to the fullest extent during the past year and I desire on behalf of the management and of myself to thank all officers and employees for their admirable record. The greatest harvest of the west and the prospects for increased immigration justify us in anticipating continued prosperity for 1924. That prosperity depends so much on adequate and efficient transportation that it behoves every one of us to strain every effort to meet the anticipated demands of the public. The closing month of the year that has passed was saddened by the death of our chairman, the late Lord Shaughnessy to whose forty years of splendid service the established strength and world wide growth of the Canadian Pacific are largely due his magnificent achievement should be an inspiration to all of us in the years to come. I extend to all of you and to the members of your families my best wishes for a New Year filled with happiness and prosperity and health."

The New Liquor Bill

A statement covering the general lines of the new liquor bill to be submitted by the government, was issued by Premier Greenfield. The statement is as follows:

The liquor bill which the government will as a result of the plebiscite of November 5th, submit for the consideration of the legislature, will in its general principles follow the recommendations of the Moderation league but with some modification. It will provide for:

(1) The establishment of a board to be known as the Alberta Liquor Control Board with a maximum of three members, one to be the chairman who will be vested with very wide powers in the administration of the act.

(2) The sale of wines and spirits in sealed packages on permits at such places as the board may designate in quantities limited by regulations of the board, all wines and spirits to be sold only by the board through properly appointed vendors for consumption in private residences only.

(3) Permits to be issued by board and all liquors including beer to be sold only to holders of permits. Full powers of cancellation to be granted to the board without appeal.

(4) Beer to be sold in sealed packages for consumption in residences to holders of permits; detail of such sale and delivery to residents to be regulated by order of board.

(5) The sale of beer by bottle or glass for consumption on the premises limited to premises specially licensed for that purpose, such premises consisting of a room conforming to strict regulations of the board. No such licenses to be granted to restaurants nor to dining rooms of hotels.

Wide powers will be given the board in granting and cancelling such licenses.

(6) Local option: The location of vendors stores and the granting of licenses to premises for the sale of beer for consumption on the premises as per clause 5 to be subject to certain local option provisions.

(7) Clubs. Bonafide clubs as defined by the Act will be permitted to sell beer to members subject to regulation by the board.

Commenting on the meeting of the Government members which had been held the Premier said the meeting was not called solely for the purpose of discussing the new liquor legislation.

In discussing the legislation, no draft Act was submitted to the members but an effort was made to ascertain through those present the opinion in rural districts on the most important questions involved, principally the extent to which beer should be sold for consumption in licensed premises.

A LUCKY CATCH

A team of horses, sleigh, double set of harness, enough provisions for the winter, and $50 in cash was what an Indian received for the catch that disappointed his ten-year-old son, Little Boulder, who set his trap to catch weasels and regarded with disgust the snarling little black animal he found therein later. The catch proved to be a beautiful specimen of silver black fox, which was duly appreciated at the Hudson's Bay Company trading post at Green Lake, Sask., where the young trapper's father traded it in.

RECORD COAL OUTPUT

The year 1923 will see a new record in Alberta coal production. It is expected the total production for the year will reach 7,000,000 tons, in comparison with less than 6,000,000 last year. The production up to November 1st was 1,500,000 tons greater than the production during the same period last year. The record production previously was in 1920, when 6,400,000 tons was produced.

HONOR THE WINNERS

ALBERTA'S EXHIBIT FOR ENGLAND

Arrangements are being made between the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture for an exhibit similar to the Alberta exhibit placed at Chicago, to be put up at the Empire Exhibition in London, England, next year. It is likely that the exhibit which was at Chicago will be put up during the provincial seat fair in Edmonton in January.

USUAL RATES

There will be no special fares on Canadian railway lines for the British Empire Exhibition to be held in London, England, next year, according to an announcement made by Canadian National passenger officials at Winnipeg. However, they pointed out that the usual low excursion rates from points in Canada will prevail to Atlantic ports.

RUGBY AND DISTRICT

Mrs. Colbeck of Shelby, Mont., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Vipond.

The absence of Mr. J. R. Moon and family has been greatly felt during the Yuletide season. The White House on the Hill has always been foremost in providing Xmas cheer.

Roy Worthington is visiting with friends and relatives in Calgary.

The Elkton school held a very successful Xmas entertainment on Friday, December 21st, a very large crowd being in attendance. Miss Lowrie must have spent considerable time in training her thoroughbreds. We could all hear the big drum though we cannot say the same for certain of the other artists. The entertainment was followed by a dance promoted by A. Hergert and E. Sworn. We regret to report that both Eric and Adam have spent a vacation in Calgary since.

We all missed Rugby's Christmas entertainment but we assume that the Department of Education is fully occupied with cooking its own mush. This being the first time in the history of Rugby that the youngsters have been obliged to forego their Xmas celebrations. We sincerely hope it is also the last.

A number of the local jazz babies journeyed to Garfield on Friday last.

The wedding dance at Springside school brings back fond memories of long overdue dances. What about it you two? Did Eric's smash up not earn compensation. The moon is now bright and Charley might be able to travel without a—latern.

Instead of making New Year's resolutions live up to the old ones.

The time is now ripe for the C. U. C. to resume its activities.

We take this opportunity of wishing friends and enemies a bright and prosperous New Year.

I have known the Mowbray's now for several months, and I am still filled with amazement at Mrs. Mowbray's remarkable gift for absorbing miscellaneous information. "On the staff of a newspaper she would have been invaluable, except that she never repeated anything scandalous or sensational or unkind. The first afternoon she gave me a short sketch of her family history and a working outline of the temperament and circumstances of everyone for miles around, all in the lightest and most matter-of-course manner possible. It made me feel rather uneasy, but when I knew her better I realized the truthfulness of Jim Cameron's description of her.

"Mrs. Mowbray will go away and tell people how old you are, and every last thing you have in your house and its probable cost," he said. "But if she suspects that you quarrel with your husband or don't feed your children properly wild horses wouldn't draw it out of her."

The Mowbrays, so I learned, had come from the Stonewall district some four or five years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Mowbray had gone to Stonewall a newly-married couple and had been fairly prosperous, though they never became as wealthy as did some of their neighbors. Then as their three sons began to grow up the father and mother decided that by selling out and using their capital in a newer district they could do better for their family, so they left their comfortable home and came out here while the district was practically wilderness.

"This is twice I've pioneered," Mrs. Mowbray told me, "but it has been worth while. Of course I miss some of the things we had at home, but we are very comfortable here, so I don't regret the move. Father and the boys have a section of fine land between them all, and it gives the boys a chance. Some of our old neighbors thought we were crazy to sell out, that we should stay on the old place with one of the boys and let the other two make their own way. But I said no, they are good boys, all three of them, and where they go their father and mother and sister will go with them. It would break my heart to see a son of mine living as those poor Cameron boys do, with never a woman to do hand's turn for them."

"I'll not say that I was not pretty homesick at first," Mrs. Mowbray admitted, "but I like it fine now and we are certainly doing well. Of course we sold our old places for a good price and that made it easier for us to have things comfortable here than if we had just been starting out, as so many of the people here are. Father and I had our share of that at Stonewall in the early days, and it makes my heart ache sometimes now when I see the women around here slaving and fretting and doing without the things they need for themselves and their children. I've been through it all. But it's the way of the world, I guess, and it has turned out a pretty fair sample of men and women. It makes me tired to hear people gushing about the poor foreign women, and begging for nurses and doctors for them—a lot the women that made this country knew about nurses and doctors! I nursed my own children whenever they were sick and so did all the other mothers, and we didn't have even a thermometer. And back a generation it was harder still. In a case of sore need I could get the doctor out from Stonewall, though sometimes he had to wait for his pay until the grain was sold; bless him, but my mother raised nine children, and never a person with her but an old Indian woman."

As the autumn advanced others of my neighbors followed Mrs. Mowbray's example, the completion of the season's work leaving them with both time and inclination for sociability. All were kind and friendly and there was little evidence of that envy and jealousy that is supposed to be so prevalent in a small community, especially in one where the men greatly outnumber the women. Kipling, in his most cynical mood, could not have found material for one of his wickedly clever stories of how women hate each other. Possibly we took out our feminine cattishness in manual labor.

I do not mean to say that I liked all my neighbors equally, but we all had certain things in common, and six women in a radius of ten miles are bound to be almost as much dependent on each other as if they were on a desert island.

Mrs. Fenwick, an Englishwoman of forty or thereabouts, had only been out here for two years when we came, having married Mr. Fenwick while he was overseas. Mr. Fenwick is English too, but he had been in Canada for some years before the war. They are a strange couple in many ways and I shall always believe that they married each other because he wanted a housekeeper and she, under the stimulus of her war work, grasped at the chance to break away from her humdrum life. She is not an attractive woman, and at first I could find no point of contact, but I learned to admire her determination to make the best of an environment different from that to which she had been accustomed, and as I tried to understand her I grew to like her. Their farm should be a good one, but Mr. Fenwick was undoubtedly born under an unlucky star. If there was hail or frost his grain was sure to suffer, his woodland had an uncanny affinity with fire and his cattle a special susceptibility to disease. He is not very strong himself, never has been, I suspect, and the leg wound he got at Vimy still troubles him. But there is a quiet patience about the man that one has to respect, though I don't think I shall ever really like him.

Our other English neighbor is not at all like Mrs. Fenwick, but is a pretty, fluffy, brainless little thing who at eighteen married Jack Severn, then on his first leave from France, scarcely older than herself and not at all wiser. The poor children had turned each other's heads, no doubt, and as there was no one at hand to apply the necessary ice-packs the end of the war found them out here on a Soldier's Settlement Board farm, with two babies, no experience of the hard things of life, and an uphill road to climb. I am alternately annoyed with Gwen and sorry for her. She is absolutely without restraint, and when she is in the proper mood she will tell me all Jack's faults, first and foremost among them being the fact that he did not tell her what a perfectly beastly country Canada is. The two babies she sometimes adores and sometimes neglects and her house is never tidy. What will become of them I do not know, for Jack is as undisciplined as she. They do their quarrelling in public whenever it is necessary, and I long to treat them as I could treat the twins if they ever behaved so badly. Gwen is not well-bred, and she has an amazing vocabulary for one of her years.

"Well, then, why didn't you marry a tame old cow like Jean Mowbray?" she screamed at her husband one day. "You and your Canadian women make me sick. I wish there had never been a war!"

"So do it!" growled Jack, and he went out and slammed the door behind him.

Whereupon Gwen threw herself on me and broke into uncontrolled weeping in which her babies joined. But Rupert and Nicolas gazed at her in wide-eyed consternation. When her rage had spent itself and she was crying more quietly she began to talk, and to my amazement the burden of her complaint was that Jack wouldn't come back, he had said that if ever she drove him out again it would be the last she would ever see of him!

"You Canadians are a bit queer in some ways," she sobbed, "but Jack is the first man I ever met who treated me as if I'd been a lady."

In spite of the seriousness of the situation I had an insane desire to laugh. Instead I cast aside all reserve and talked to the girl with absolutely brutal frankness. Since then she has come to me with all her woes—Jack came back the next day, of course, but human nature does not change over night—and Murray is highly amused at what he calls my role of grandmother. I cannot help feeling sorry for them both, and being, I suppose, of an optimistic nature, I hope that they will come to their senses before it is too late. They are, I am convinced, really fond of each other, and I doubt if they would be happy apart.

After the unromantic Fenwicks and the too romantic Severns it is a relief to turn to Mrs. Gagnon—Madame Gagnon, I suppose I should say, for she is the model French-Canadian wife and mother. In the winter, when the creek is frozen, she is my nearest neighbor, and the children and I are always glad of an excuse to follow the path that leads to the scrupulously neat and much overcrowded house where Mme. Gagnon reigns, a benevolent despot, over Baptiste, Sr., Baptiste, Jr., Gabrielle, Rose-Marie, Helene, Paul, Joseph, the baby Victorie, and old Narcisse Pambrun, the half-breed man-of-all-work. The girls are all pretty and shy and efficient, and the boys, sturdy little chaps, amusing copies of the valiant and prosperous Baptiste Sr.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

The first snow came before our kitchen was finished, in fact, it was not until spring that we had it plastered, but even in its crudeness it was a great comfort and convenience. There was a small excavation under it, merely a hole in the ground floored with rough boards, where we stored our winter potatoes and preserved fruit. I do not know which I appreciated most, that small cellar or the fact that I was able to put the cook-stove out of the living-room! The pipe from the kitchen stove went through the children's room, that from the Carron stove in the living-room through ours, and Mr. Gagnon assured us that we would be very comfortable throughout the winter. We were, too, though unless we got up during the night to replenish the fires we had to thaw our breakfast next morning. The thoroughly dried poplar that made so quick a fire in the kitchen stove had not, we discovered, the staying power of hard coal.

I cannot imagine myself ever losing the memory of that first winter on the farm. It was not always pleasant to be so close to Nature but it must have been wholesome, for we all thrived on it—even the piano did not seem to be injured by the frost that sometimes gathered on its back.

It was, on the whole, a mild winter, with few storms, and it was seldom that the children and I spent a whole day in the house. Jim Cameron had made a fine large sleigh for the children and many an afternoon we spent sliding gloriously down the bank of the creek and climbing laboriously back. We built a wonderful snow-house, too, and took long tramps through the woods.

"Sploring," as Nicolas called it, was one of our most popular occupations. We never went far from home, for I did not altogether trust myself in the woods, but to the children our wanderings had all the charm of the unexpected. With the most serious of faces they would comment on rabbit tracks and point to anything that might be referred to later as a landmark—I do not think we ever really stalked a rabbit, but the kiddies always expected to. They were really very observant, Rupert especially so, and I suppose the stories I told them stimulated their imaginations. In old Narcisse Pambrun too we found a wonderful storyteller. He would not always talk, but in the proper mood he would sing out story after story in his quaint French-English with its Indian cadence—stories of origin as mixed as his language, Indian animal myths, French-Canadian folk-lore, and "tall" stories of the prowess and adventures of the plainsmen of a hundred years ago. It is no wonder that the woods around us were enchanted ground to the children in that first winter. Thanks to Narcisse the rabbit and the whiskey-jack and the occasionally-seen blue jay each had its own personality and its own history. And the Loup-garou was never mentioned. "I will not allow that Narcisse should fright' the little ones," Mrs. Gagnon said to me in confidence.

As a rule the children and I had to go for our walks without Murray, and the pleasantest afternoons of all were those on which he accompanied us. When Daddy was in charge of the expedition we carried sandwiches and a bottle of cocoa with us, and when we came to a convenient spot we lit a fire and had our lunch seated on fall-en trees around it.

Singing Pays

Street singers are gleanings a golden harvest in London just now. A young Manchester man, fined in court, went into the streets, sang and earned enough to pay his fine. Many are refusing offers of 8 pounds a week in orchestras to sing in the gutters and snatch the passerby's shilling.

Cuts and Bruises Disappear.—When suffering from cuts, scratches, bruises, sprains, sore throat or chest and any similar ailment, use Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Its healing power is well-known in every section of the community. A bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil should be in every medicine chest ready for the emergencies that may always be anticipated.

Each In His Own Tongue

The correspondent of a large business concern had been invited out to dinner by a friend. At the table the host asked him to say grace. It was a new experience, but he was not to be found wanting.

"Dear Lord," he began, "we thank Thee for all Thy favors of recent date. Permit us to express our heartfelt gratitude. We trust that we may continue to merit your confidence and that we shall receive many more blessings from You in the future. Amen."

Immigration Increasing

More than double the number of immigrants came to Canada during the past six months, as compared with the similar period a year ago. The figures, according to the Department of Immigration, show 94,333 people of all nationalities to have entered Canada during the six months, April-September, 1923, while the number was 46,331, for the same period in 1922. British immigration during the past six months amounted to 51,961, United States 13,055.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

"LITTLE FOXES," By E. A. Henry, D.D.

Interesting Stories For Young Folks

Published By Permission Thomas Allen, Publisher

"I FORGOT"

Oh, how much trouble this little fox causes!

Out West near Fort William, once occurred a serious collision—all because an engineer forgot to watch the safety signals! A great train was wrecked and a whole railway district held up for hours; and some lives were lost—because a brakeman forgot to guard an open switch!

It's a bad fox, girls and boys!

It makes you character rugged and slovenly. It wastes people's time. It causes endless confusion. It holds up plans. Somebody forgets to do his duty and that upsets all some one else has to do; and so it goes on and around, until things become a regular mix-up.

There is a place for a good forgetter!

It is just to forget your worries and to forget yourself; and to forget the nasty things people do to you; and to forget your mistakes, if you are sorry for them; and to forget that you were not invited to somebody's party; and to forget that you fell down yesterday, if you got up again and are still on your feet!

But it is important to have a good memory too.

A little girl forgot to post her mother's letter, and it stopped the chance of a pleasant holiday for her grandmother, who was waiting for directions.

A little boy forgot to close the door of the nursery when he was told, and the baby nearly died of pneumonia. In the days of the great war so recently closed, they had to spend millions of dollars on making shells. They had to be very carefully made. If a shell was more than 3/1000 of an inch more in diameter than was called for, it was sent back. It was important not to forget this. In fact, they had to watch against fuzz getting on the shell from the gloves worn by the workers.

One day an inspector found a shell that would not fit. Some one forgot to watch against the fine lint and sent in the shell which was at once sent back.

And surely if it was so important to remember all these fine points about a death-dealing shell, it is just as important not to forget the little things of life, that may spoil the whole day.

A bridge-builder made out all his plans and set the men to work, and when it was put together it was seventeen feet too short, because the plan-maker forgot one little measure that knocked the whole work out.

DISSOLUTION OF REICHSTAG NOW CONSIDERED NEAR

Berlin.—Adam Stengerwald, former premier of Prussia, and Centrist leader, has notified President Ebert that he will be unable to accept the chancellorship, and form a cabinet to take the place of that of Dr. Stresemann. The prospects of a dissolution of the Reichstag are considered to be nearer.

The widespread impression that the main cause of the food scarcity in Germany is that the farmers are refusing to sell their crops, preferring to hold them for increased prices, is wholly unfounded, declared the food minister in a statement recently issued.

Difficulties abound, all of which have their root in the main difficulty of providing means of payment. The farmers are specially hard hit by this, and have suffered very severe losses through the constant depreciation of the mark."

The minister declared that the harvest, although better than that of last year, was not sufficient to feed the people, and there was need for considerable supplies from abroad.

Royal Grain Commission

Alberta to Present Stated Case Regarding Grain Exchange

Edmonton, Alta.—Attorney-General Brownlee says that the Alberta Government will present a stated case to the Royal Grain Commission, when it takes up, in Winnipeg, its investigation into the grain exchange.

It has not yet been decided, however, in what way the case will be handled. Mr. Brownlee may himself go east for the purpose, if the session of the legislature does not prevent his doing so, and in that event the case may be presented by G. H. Van Allen, who is now acting as special counsel for the government at the grain commission hearings.

Very Little Rum Running

Washington.—Federal prohibition director Stone, of North Dakota, returned after a visit to Winnipeg, where he investigated conditions under which liquor is being sold in Manitoba. He reported that restrictions on the sales are "very tight," and, despite reports to the contrary, little liquor was coming across into the United States. In his report, made to Federal Commissioner Haines, Mr. Stone said that few persons were crossing the Canadian border to purchase liquor in Manitoba, but that "as long as they are selling $12,000 worth of hard liquor a day, a little is bound to leak across the border."

River Water Causes

Typhoid Epidemic

Turned Into Mains to Give Quebec Town Ample Fire Protection

Montreal.—Two people are dead and over a hundred are ill as a result of typhoid fever epidemic, caused by the population drinking polluted river water, which has been raging in the town of St. Jerome, Que.

The epidemic, according to Dr. Les Loges, head of the provincial department of health, was caused by demonstrations made in St. Jerome during "fire prevention week" a short time ago, when in their enthusiasm and desire to give the town a big water supply to fight fires, the authorities laid pipes from the polluted waters of the Riviere Du Nord into the town's water supply.

Two government health inspectors are in St. Jerome, leading a large number of doctors and trained nurses in an effort to prevent the disease from spreading and to save the hundred or more victims already stricken with the disease. It is believed that a check has been given to the epidemic.

Ontario Waives Claim To Assist Depositors

Will Wait Eighteen Months Before Asking Payment From Home Bank

Toronto.—Following a conference between Premier Ferguson, Attorney-General W. F. Nickle and G. T. Clarkson, liquidator for the Home Bank of Canada, the government decided to waive for a period of 18 months its prior right to the full payment of $1,500,000 of provincial monies on deposit with the bank. It is stated from other sources that the payment of the 25 per cent. dividends to the depositors will now commence as speedily as possible.

The government deposit will bear interest at three per cent., which means a saving to the depositors of about two per cent. or $37,500 as the amount involved would have to be borrowed from the Canadian Bankers' Association at five per cent. interest.

Farmed Same Land For Eleven Centuries

French Family Has Held Estate Since the Year 772

Paris.—The government announcement that it would decorate with the Order of Agricultural Merit the heads of all families which could produce documentary evidence of having farmed the same land continuously for at least three centuries, has brought to the fore no less than 750 families with the necessary qualifications. The record is held by the La Fargues, formerly of Coutie, near Mollerens, who have lived on the present estate since the year 772.

Cannot Escape Income Tax

Toronto.—Declaring that Canada was in an "income age," Dr. Horace L. Brittain, director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, told the Ontario Manufacturers' Association that the abolition of income taxation would only mean that a provincial income tax would be levied. Dr. Brittain said that within ten years all the provinces in the Dominion would have two income taxes, either a Dominion and a provincial tax, or a Dominion and a municipal tax.

Form Prohibition League

Dry Forces in Saskatchewan to Combat Efforts of Moderationists

Regina.—To combat the efforts of the Moderation League of Saskatchewan to secure a referendum on the liquor question and subsequently the introduction of a system of government control of the sale of liquor, the Prohibition League of Saskatchewan was launched at the prohibition convention held here.

The provincial prohibition convention was attended by about 250 delegates representative of various organizations from all sections of the province. It was decided, after the league had been organized to hold an annual meeting each year.

Resolutions were adopted expressing disapproval of the submission of a referendum until at least the expiration of three years from December 15, 1922, when the export liquor warehouses went out of business. The question of sending a delegation to the government to convey this view was referred to the executive of the newly created organization.

A proposal that a counter petition to the Moderation League petition be circulated was also referred to the executive, the statement being freely made that at least 100,000 names could be secured to such a petition.

May Not Reach Agreement

Britain and Italy Setting Obstacles for France Says Paris Journal

Paris.—Jules Sauerwein, foreign editor of Le Matin, expresses the conviction that Great Britain and Italy are going to raise more and more obstacles in the path of France. He says he has no doubt but that the British members of the military control commission in Berlin have received instructions which mean simply the suppression of control altogether.

The Petit Parisien says that London and Paris have reached an agreement on most of the points involved in the Tangier question but that Madrid is hesitating.

Not Little Englanders

London.—J. H. Thomas, railway labor leader and parliamentary candidate, speaking at Barrow, said those who called members of the Labor party "Little Englanders," and declared the Labor party did not believe in the Empire, were "deliberate liars." He added: "We want to see the empire great, but we don't measure greatness by bloody victories or the size of the army and navy."

EXPECTING MANY SETTLERS FROM BRITISH ISLES

Montreal.—"If Canada will improve facilities for placing people on the land, making it easier, by means of better organization or otherwise, to become settled, the flow of adaptable people from the British Isles to this country will be greatly increased," said Dr. W. J. Black, manager of the colonization and development department of the Canadian National Railways in London, England, in an interview on his arrival in Montreal from England.

Dr. Black is enthusiastic over the outlook, and while he refrains from making any claims that might be called extravagant, he expresses the belief that immigration to Canada next year will be much heavier than this year. This prediction he bases upon two fundamentals and the evident desire of the federal and provincial governments to arrive at a clear understanding for the putting into motion of the proper machinery for bringing into this country immigrants of a desirable and adaptable type. The second is the genuine interest shown by Britshers in Canada and the opportunities which Canada offers. This interest is not local to one or two sections of England or Scotland, but is general, according to Dr. Black.

The project includes the enlargement of the port, the construction of several docks and storehouses, and the readjustment of the existing railway lines in order to speed up transport of goods to and from Switzerland by the Simplon and St. Gotthard routes.

FIVE YEARS RECORD AT

In view of the remarkable showing made by Alberta grain at the international show at Chicago this month, when 44 prizes were obtained, it is interesting to note how this province has come to the front during the past few years in this regard.

It was in 1919 that the first showing was made. Since then the record has been as follows:

1919—Four or five prizes.

1920—Nineteen prizes, two grand championships, oats and field peas.

1921—Thirty prizes, three grand championships in oats, peas and alfalfa.

1922—Thirty-five prizes, three grand championships, oats, barley and peas.

1923—Fourty-four prizes with three grand championships, in wheat, oats and red clover.

Pains In Back Subdued Sore Chest Relieved

A Nova Scotian Tells How She Overcame Her Troubles With

NERVILINE

"I consider Nerviline the best remedy for a cold, sore throat or tightness across the chest," writes Miss Lucy Mosher, from Windsor, N.S. "For years our home has never been without Nerviline. I had a cold on my chest that fourteen remedies couldn't break up. I rubbed on Nerviline three times a day, used Nerviline as a gargle and was completely restored." It's because Nerviline is so powerful, so penetrating, so sure to relieve congestion, that it is used in most homes, for the prevention and relief of a hundred minor ills. Get a 35c bottle to-day.

Between 9 and 12 years of age a child spends more energy in proportion to its weight than at any other period in its life.

Peevish, pale, restless and sickly children owe their condition to worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will relieve them and restore health.

A fool tries to get square with others, but the wise man spends his time in blocking the attempts of others to get square with him.

CUTICURA HEALS RASH ON BACK

Spread To Neck and Arms. Itched and Burned. Lasted 3 Months.

"My trouble began with a rash breaking out on my back. My clothing aggravated it, and it kept spreading to my neck and arms. It itched and burned so that I spent many a sleepless night. The trouble lasted about three months. I tried different remedies without success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample which helped me. I bought more and in three weeks was healed." (Signed) H. M. Kramer, 566 Hertel Ave., Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 24, 1922.

Local Merchant Loses Brother

Mr. H. W. Chamberlin received word of the death of his brother Rufus Gardner Chamberlin a few days ago at the Royal Victoria hospital in Montreal, death taking place on December 26th. Death was unexpected by his relatives as he had gone quietly to the hospital to have an operation performed from which he never recovered.

Deceased was chief of the department of investigation of the C. P. R. which position he had held for some years, before that time being chief of police of Ottawa and Vancouver. Besides his brother in Didsbury and a sister, he leaves his wife and six children. Mrs. Chamberlin had gone to Vancouver to visit a daughter and was in that city when the death of her husband occurred.

A CHANGE IN WEATHER

After experiencing one of the best periods of fall weather which kept up right until Christmas eve, that Alberta has had for a great many years, the weather suddenly changed and a fall of snow took place, changing what everyone expected from a green Christmas to a seasonable, beautiful day, with snow on the ground and a tang in the air that gave everyone an appetite for their Christmas dinners.

Didsbury received a share of the snow storm but there was not as big a downfall as in some other parts of the province, and the temperature since Christmas eve has ranged anywhere from zero to thirty-five below.

The weather and general conditions seem to have caused people to take advantage of visiting around for the holidays, the railways reporting excellent business. Didsbury saw a great influx of visitors for the holidays, a lot of the young people coming to the home nest to spend the holidays with parents.

Altogether this holiday season has seen a revival of a better spirit than has been seen for some years.
